Finns Appreciate Their English

By the occasional news that has appeared in the "Avalanche" the readers of this paper may know, that the Finuish population of Grayling have enjoyed during the past several months, the advantages of an evening

The school was instituted by Dr. O. Palmer, in order to promote the Finnish people's ability in the English language. The school was greatly appreciated, and the attendance was satisfactory throughout the course.

Dr. Palmer has defrayed all the ex penditures in connection with the school, thus relieving the pupils of ill pecuniary obligations, which rare, benevolent sacrifice in behalf of a foreign people is to be highly units d

It is delightful to know that there are such generous souls who give freely everything in their power to help those, who are in need of help; and the Finnish people of Grayling realize one of those in Dr. Palmer, to whom they are very much indebted for this kindness. The only reward they can give him is their sincere ac knowledgement of gratitude.

GRAND TRUNK TRAIN STRIKES CAR CONTAINING FARMER AND FAMILY.

Machine Is Struck Squarely in the Middle and Seven Occupants Are Killed Outright By Collision.

Mt. Clemens-Grand Trunk flyer No. 18, leaving Detroit at 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning, at Fraser, Macomb county. Sunday noon crashed into an automobile truck in which William Stoldt, Avon township farmer, was driving with his family.

Seven of the eight passengers were killed outright and Stoldt was fatally injured.

Those who were killed are: Mrs. Rachel Stoldt, aged 44 years, Mrs. Stoldt's sister, Miss Minnie Engel, of Romeo, and Mr. and Mrs. Stoldt's five daughters, Pearl, 17; Esther, 5; Hazel, 12; Mabel, 10 and Martha, aged.

Sheriff Hartway was notified and, with Coroner Sperlich and Prosecutor Kent, was on the scene of the accident within 15 minutes. A flat rail-way truck was employed by the coroner to gather up the bodies.

Just how the accident occurred is all conjecture, but there are indications of carelessness on the part of the driver, Stoldt, in the opinion of the authorities. There are two crossings at Fraser station, one about 100 yards south of the depot and the other 200 yards north, within the limits of the railroad yards. It was at the latter point where the accident happened. On the corner west of the tracks and toward the station from the road, is a house and a grove of trees.

MAN WHO RESCUES SIX DEAD

Blaze Starting in Rear of Feed Store Traps Girls in Box Factory in Third and Fourth Stories.

Pittsburg-Thirteen persons were killed and eight injured by a fire in a four story building, the two upper floors of which were occupied by the Union Paper Box company, on the north side here Monday afternoon. Of the dead all were young women employed by the company except one. Many of the bodies were so badly burned as to make identification difficult.

The flames started in a pile of straw in the rear of the feed store of James Brown & Co. on the first floor of the building. William C. Kimbel, general manager of the box factory, at once went to the third and fourth floors and warned the girls employed there to leave quietly. The flames gained headway so rapidly, however, that escape by means of stairways and fire escapes was soon cut off. . Some of the girls attempted to go to the dressing room for their hats and there huddled on the floor firemen found a majority of the bodies.

One of the heroes of the fire was Peter Vallon, who is among the dead. When the fire was discovered he was working in the building. He groped his way through the smoke to the street, where he heard girls frantically calling for help from the upper floods. Tying a handkerchief about his mouth he rushed into the building. Six times he staggered to the street with the unconscious form of a girl in his arms. When he failed to appear the seventh time, however, spectators called the attention of the firemen, who instituted a search and found Vallon's charred body on the second floor. lay the body of a young girl whom he had evidently tried to rescue when overcome by smoke.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times cloudy, full of sadiment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithis, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

BRANDMA USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HAIR

She made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to bring back color, gloss, thickness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss. While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, oft and luxuriant.

Unromantic IIIa

Do you suppose the romantic personages of the past suffered as we do from colds in the head and other kindred affections? Picture Cleopatra when preparing to apply the asp to her breast pausing in the proceedings to blow her nose violently. Fancy Antony stopping in his oration over the dead body of Caesar to sip a glass of water or to slip into his mouth a jujube lozenge from the sleeve pocket of his toga. Imagine Heary V, unable to breathe properly through his nose on account of a severe rheum con-tracted in the moisty trenches of Agincourt, adjuring his troops, "Once bore unto the breach, dear friends, once bore," or words to that effect. Or Juliet, languishing on her balcony, sneezing violently in the midst of her ardent responses to Romeo, because the nights had drawn in chill at Verong and she was rather too lightly clad. Such ribald funcies are unthinkable. Before the snuffles Romance with averted face flits lightly away.

Language. He had just been graduated from a northern university and could quote Caesar, in the original, as authority for the statement that all Gaul is divided into three parts, but he had not studied local idioms and peculiarities of speech in West Virginia, where ne got his first fob as a handy man in a big peach orchard. While he was carting a barrel of liquid chemicals for spraying trees, his team of mules run away. The spray mixture spattered over him, his feet were soaked in the stuff, and he was hanging on for dear life to the footboard of the cart, when a country boy yelled to him: "Put on your rubbers! Put on your rubbers!"

"Oh, go to —!" shouted the Har-"Oh, go to —!" shouted the Harvard man. He thought the boy was trying to have fun with him. How could he know that throughout that countryside "rubber" was technical for brake?

In those days only a very small percentage of boys entered college, more than ordinary accomplishment and there was no higher institution of learning open to girls than the seminary, with a curriculum similar to that of our present high school.

The young man who desired to entechnical trade or to perfect himself for any vocation, had to learn nate positions, allowing others of no this business, trade, or profession, "at the last," so to speak. Even the would-be lawyer read law in a law office, and the dentist entered a dentist's office as an apprentice.

Today educational conditions have changed, and there are innumerable technical schools as well as those teaching some one concrete profes-

The young man, then, may learn his trade either in the old way, by entering it, or by attending some institution specializing in the vocation which he is to follow.

Which is the better way?

Practically all of our best technical schools, including institutes of technology, are managed by experts, who, fortunately, are composite men, not only understanding science, but having the ability to impart its principles.

While this school training does not wholly give the experience of the workshop, it will teach one, first, the fundamental principles, and, secondly, how more easily to apply them.

SWEDEN

The English-Swedish commission which has for two months been striv ing to adjust the trade differences be ween the two countries, is no neare satisfactory solution of the dispute than at the beginning of its session. Meanwhile, over $25,000,000 worth of supplies for Russia, which she urgent y needs, have accumulated in Sweden owing to this country's refusal to allow the transit of goods to Russia un til England has modified her demands regulating the amount of Sweden's imports,

The English members of the commission argue that a large amount of supplies, many of which are directly connected with the maintenance of an army and the prolongation of the war, find transit through Sweden to Germany. They contend that a conspicuous increase in Swedish imports peyond her own needs is evidence that hese supplies find a way to Germany and that a great many of them are ar which Germany particularly needs, notably meat, coffee, cocoa, cot on, copper and lubricants of vari ous sorts. Being assured that these are destined for Germany, England claims the right to place such cargoes in the prize courts and is enforcing this right.

The Swedish members of the com mission reply that her export laws which are rigidly enforced by the gov ernment, prohibit the sending of most articles to Germany and that excep tions are only made to this prohibitory list when she is forced into an exchange of supplies with Germany by a shortage of necessary articles in her country, caused in many cases by England's restriction of her imports. There are some articles such as aniline dyes, medical goods and certain kinds of machinery which Sweden can obtain from Germany and in order to get these necessary supplies she must extend to Germany special licenses contrary to her prohibitory regulations. But it is contended that these supplies which Germany obtained under these conditions are almost negli gible. Swedish commissioners claim she is justified in refusing to guar antee the stoppage of transit to Germany, because as an independent na tion she has a right to trade with one country as well as another, and that if England sees fit to hold up her imports, she will refuse to transmit supplies to Ruesia. The issue which has caused a dead lock is the quantity of supplies sent to Germany under the special license contrary to Sweden's list of forbidden The English members of the commission have called for exact figures show the export to Germany, but such statistics, it is claimed by the Swedish government, are not available. The English and Swedish members of the commission also disagree as to the usefulness to Germany for military purposes of such articles as copper, which are on Sweden's free list. The Erallsh argue that whether the copper is one kind or another, it can be converted into copper for military use in Germany, and that large quantities of copper, oil and cotton have found transit into Germany.

Admiral Lindman, former Swedish premier and present leader of the conservative party, denied that Sweden was prepared to make concessions in her trade dispute with England.
"It is unfortunate," said Admiral

Lindman, "that no league of neutral powers was formed at the beginning of the war to safeguard the rights and privileges of the neutral nations but since that was not done, it is now the duty of Sweden to defend these rights. One of these rights is her commerce with another neutral nation like the United States. In her dispute with England, Sweden is upholding this sovereign right and she will continue to uphold it.

"England's exaction is equivalent to forcing us into a partnership with her, for we regard it one of the requirements of neutrality to treat both sides impartially in regard to the transit of materials. Now that England has made it impossible for us to send goods to Germany, our only and England." . . .

There is only one combination of circumstances which is likely to draw bahnwesen, the official publication of Sweden into the war, in the opinion of the royal Prussian department of pub-Hialmar Branting, leader of the socialist party of Sweden, and generally admitted to be the most likely candidate for premier at the next election. If the English-Swedish trade negotiations fall through," said Mr. Branting, "and at the same time trouble with Russia should arise in Finland, the situation produced by these two misfortunes would be an alarming one. It would then be impossible to restrain the pro-German element of this country from rushing into war. #### ENGINEER'S WORK IN ALASKA

Americans May Well Take a Special Pride.

The recent decision of congress to devote $40,000,000 toward railroad building in Alaska calls attention to the many daring feats which the engineer has already to his credit in this wonderful land. Here, amid the terrors of an Arctic climate, he has thrown the iron road over steep mountain passes, vines and over swiftly moving rivers work which has only been accomplished after a stern battle agains ice and snow, bitter cold and cruel

Before enumerating what the railroad engineer has done away up under the Arctic circle here, it is interesting to note that when the United State paid Russia $7,200,000 for Alaska al most everybody agreed it was one of the worst real estate transactions ever consummated. Then came the discov ery of gold, the famous rush to the Klondike, and icebound Alaska was found to be in every sense of the word a veritable gold mine. Since its purchase from Russia something like $420,000,000 worth of products, repre sented mostly in minerals and fur, have been taken out of the countrycertainly not a bad return on the

What is badly needed, however, for the successful development of this interesting land is better transportation facilities. In its whole 600,000 square miles of area there are today only some 400-odd miles of railroads, all of which have been built by private enterprise. Now that coal and oil are known to exist, in addition to gold silver and copper, and the summer though short, permits of the cultivation of grain and vegetables, thus en abling the land to support a large population, the government intends open up the country by at once laying down a number of railroads

TEXT-But there were false prophets also among the people, even as there shall be false teachers among you, who privly shall bring in dampable heresies, even denying the Lord that bought them, and bring upon themselves swift destruction.—II Peter 2:1.

The title of this sermon is taken from the Revised Version of the Holy Scriptures, and at thorized Version, "damnable here-sies." As ordinarily understood, "damnation" or "c o n d emnation" suggests the eternal punishment of the finally impenitent, and this the meaning would be that hose who present such heresies will be subjects of this condemnation.

What is Heresy? Scripturally, one meaning is that it efers to sects or persons, and another that it refers to discords or disensions. In Peter's time there were persons in the communities to which ne wrote, who were giving out teachings that were not in accord with what he had taught. Notwithstanding that all that is not in accord with the accepted teaching of the church is not damnable" nor "destructive," a simple matter of fact that there have been men, and it is sad to say women, too, who have been bringing in "heresies of destruction." ceive the suggestion in the text. "false teachers bringing in damnable heresies, even denying the Lord that bought them." The ordinary result of such work has been the securing to these teachers many followers, and bringing upon

struction which their heresies per-Many Heresies of Today.

Probably never in the history of Christian thought and teaching were there so many "destructive heresies" as today. These are not in accord among themselves, and the man who does not like the truth of God's Word and has rejected the people of God is greatly perplexed to know what one of the many heresies he should adopt. The followers of these heresies, as a natural result, contend with each other just as bitterly as any one of them contends with the Gospel as accepted by the church through all of its history, everywhere, and by all (semper, ubique, et ab omnibus). And never in the history of the church were Christians needing to be under pudiated the church formally, but in many cases they cling to the church, wear its livery and pose as its teachers and leaders. A heresy of today may be one of two things. It may be by an adding to the Word of God, or by omission, or ignoring some of it. There is hardly a modern religious and that does not connect itself in some way with the Bible. The Bible may not be the chief literary authority, but in this country the religionist must come to the people with a profession of love for the Bible. The country is run over by religionists who sell, or if need be, give away religious literature, and oftentimes this literature is professedly based on the Bible. Paul avo'ded heresy and told the elders of the church at Ephesus that he had not failed to declare unto them the whole of the modern teachers of the "destructive heresies" teach much that is in the Bible, but they leave out much which, if given out, would change their teaching, and it is be cause of this that we speak of their teachings as heretical. Peter sums up the heresy in mind in these words, "denying the Lord that bought them." Here we have a safeguard when we come to define heresies of destruction. They are in one way or another denials of Jesus Christ, either of his person or of some phase of his work. It is not worth while for intelligent Christians to worry about the little aberrations from the orthodox dectrines concerning many things, but when the person or work of Christ is touched, then it is their duty to become defenders of the faith.

Person and Work of Jesus Christ.
The great question of questions is, 'What think ye of Christ-whose Son We are confined to the work of Christ as the Son of God. Now. briefly, what is the truth about the person of Jesus Christ? As taught by the church from the beginning, it is that Jesus Christ is the very Son of God, born of the Virgin Mary, was historically a person in the days of Pontius Pilate, was absolutely sinless in his thought, teaching and life, died as the only sufficient sacrifice for the sins of the world, rose again from the dead, ascended into heaven, where he now sits on the right hand of God, from whence he will come as judge and to be the meditorial king on earth, and after manifesting kingship in thet form, will yield that kingdom up to God, that God may be all in all.

This I saw, that when a soul loves God with a supreme love, God's interests and his are become one. It is no matter when nor where nor how Christ should send me, nor what trials he should exercise me with, if I may be prepared for his work and will .- David Brainer

Most of the floors are laid and much woodwork completed. Each day as the work progresses the completeness and beauty of the structure is more and more revealed. It seems that everything required for the purpose for which the building is intended, is there, which is going to make this the BEST school in this part of Michigan and will surly draw a heavy attendance from less fortunate districts. Just when the building will be ready for occupancy is still uncertain at present the fondest hopes being that the grades may be moved in during the time of holiday vacation.

carefully following in the other's wake on a mule which limped. This second mule bore a woman, riding astride. She was a young woman, and if just now her slender shoulders also drooped a little, still even in their droop they hinted at a gallant grace of carriage.

The girl was very stender and though convoyed by the drab mission-"Good Anse" Talbott, riding astride a lame mount and accoutered with saddlebags and blanket-roll, her clothes were not of mountain calico, but of good fabric, skillfully tailored and she carried her head erect.

Indubitably this was a "furriner; a woman from the other world of "down below." But who was she, and why had she come? As to that, word d gone ahead of her and been duly reported to the one man who knew things hereabout; who made it a point to know things, and whose name stood as a challenge to innovation in the mountains.

When at morning she had started out from the shack town at the end of the rails, "Bad Anse" Havey's informers had ridden not far behind her. Later they had pushed ahead and relayed their message to their chief.

She had often heard the name of Bad Anse Havey. The yellow press of the state, and even of the nation, was fond of using it. Whenever to the lawless mountains came a fresh upblazing of feudal hatred and blood was let, it was customary to say that the affair bore the earmarks of Bad Anse's incitement. Certain it was that in his own territory this man was overlord and dictator.

Like one of the untamable eagles that circled the windy crests of his mountains, he had watched with eyes that could gaze unblinking into the sun all men who came and went through the highlands where his aerie perched. Those whom he hated, un less they, too, were of the eagle breed flerce and resourceful and strong of talon, could not remain there.

This slender young woman, astride a mule, was coming as the avowed outrider of a new order. She meant to make war on the whole fabric of illiteracy and squalld ignorance which arrival would interest Bad Anse Ha

Once, when they had stopped by wayside mill to let their mules pa the water trough, she had caught a scrap of conversation that was not meant for her ears; a scrap laughingly tossed from bearded lip to bearded lip among the hickory-shirted loiterers at the mill door.

At last from one of the beds she fainting snell must have lengthened heard a scuffling sound, and a moment later a childish form opened a door at flickered upward again and her brain the back of the cabin and slipped out into the darkness.

That revealed an avenue of escape. Juanita had not known that these win dowless cabins are usually supplied with two doors, and that the one into which the wind does not drive the weather stands open for light on wintry days. Now she, too, rose noise lessly and went out of the close and musty room. It was quite dark out there and she could feel, rather than see, the densely foliaged side of the the other a gourd dipper. #### SET ACRIFT BY ILLUSIONS

Young Mortal Allows Himself to Be Swayed by Conditions That Surround Him.

There is no chance and no anarchy the universe. Every god is there sitting in his sphere. The young mortal enters the hall of the firmament; there he is alone with them alone; they pouring on him benedictions and gifts, and beckoning him up to their thrones. On the instant, and incessantly, fall snowstorms of illusions. He fancies himself in a vast crowd, which sways this way and that, and whose movements and doings he must obey; he fancies himself poor, orphaned, insignificant. The mad crowd drives him hither and thither, now furiously commanding this thing to be should resist their will and think on himself? Every moment new changes and new showers of deceptions to baffie and distract him. And when, by and by, for an instant, the air clears and the cloud lifts a little, there are the gods still sitting around him on their thrones—they alone with him alone.-Emerson.
